M&C Specialties' Crime Scene Evidence Product Branded Under Remco Name

February 1, 2014, Southampton, Pennsylvania --- M&C Specialties, Inc. today announced the branding simplification of its crime scene evidence products. All finger lifting tapes will now be branded under the known Remco® name. Remco crime scene evidence products include Finger Lift Tapes, Hingelifters, and Rough Lift tapes. For more than 60 years, Remco finger lifting tapes have been used to collect and store crime scene evidence safely.

Remco® criminal evidence finger lift tapes are designed to tear easily for those technicians who fold and “snap-tear” tape and seal well so fingerprint evidence is well protected. Finger lift tapes from Remco® are easy to use and produce trusted results. Finger print tapes come in clear or frosted. Hingelifters have an optically clear, long aging adhesive system with a polyester hinged front cover. Rough Lift Tapes are the solution for finger print lifting on challenging services.

M&C Specialties is the parent company of Remco®. M&C Specialties is an OEM converter for commercial and medical application needs, offering design engineering, materials and adhesive expertise, multiple clean room production facilities and a reputation for precision-required converting services.
